Mozarteum Canada Launches with an Inaugural Concert at Heliconian Hall in Toronto

Violinist Judith Fliedl, pianist Naomi Piggott-Suchan, soprano Reilly Bianchi Nelson and cellist Joanne Yesol Choi perform at the Launch Event on November 3, 2026

TORONTO — Mozarteum Canada, a new Canadian society devoted to the music of Wolfgang Amadé Mozart, will celebrate its launch with an inaugural concert on Tuesday, November 3, 2026 at 7:30 pm at Heliconian Hall, 35 Hazelton Ave., Toronto. The Launch Event also offers a first look at the programming to come.

The evening features four artists. Vienna-based violinist Judith Fliedl, regarded as one of Austria's most versatile violinists of her generation and trained at the Mozarteum Salzburg, is joined by collaborative pianist Naomi Piggott-Suchan, soprano Reilly Bianchi Nelson and cellist Joanne Yesol Choi. Bianchi Nelson, hailed by Opera News as a “revelation,” and Choi, recipient of the Canada Council's 2025 Virginia Parker Prize and a member of the Dior Quartet, both make their Mozarteum Canada debut at this inaugural concert.

“I am thrilled to launch Mozarteum Canada utilizing emerging technologies to create new approaches and immersive music experiences, inspire and connect people through classical music,” said Johannes M. Dyring, Founder and Chair of Mozarteum Canada.

The Launch Event is supported by the Austrian Embassy Ottawa and the Austrian Cultural Forum Ottawa.

Mozarteum Canada's programming rests on three pillars: performance, education and community outreach. Together they bring concerts, talks, masterclasses and youth partnerships to audiences across the country.

Tickets and founding memberships are available online. General Admission is $50. A Founding Annual Membership is $75, half the regular $150 rate, and includes priority booking for every concert, the seasonal newsletter and invitations to open rehearsals.
